

ASR Scorpions of SA

Afroisometrus

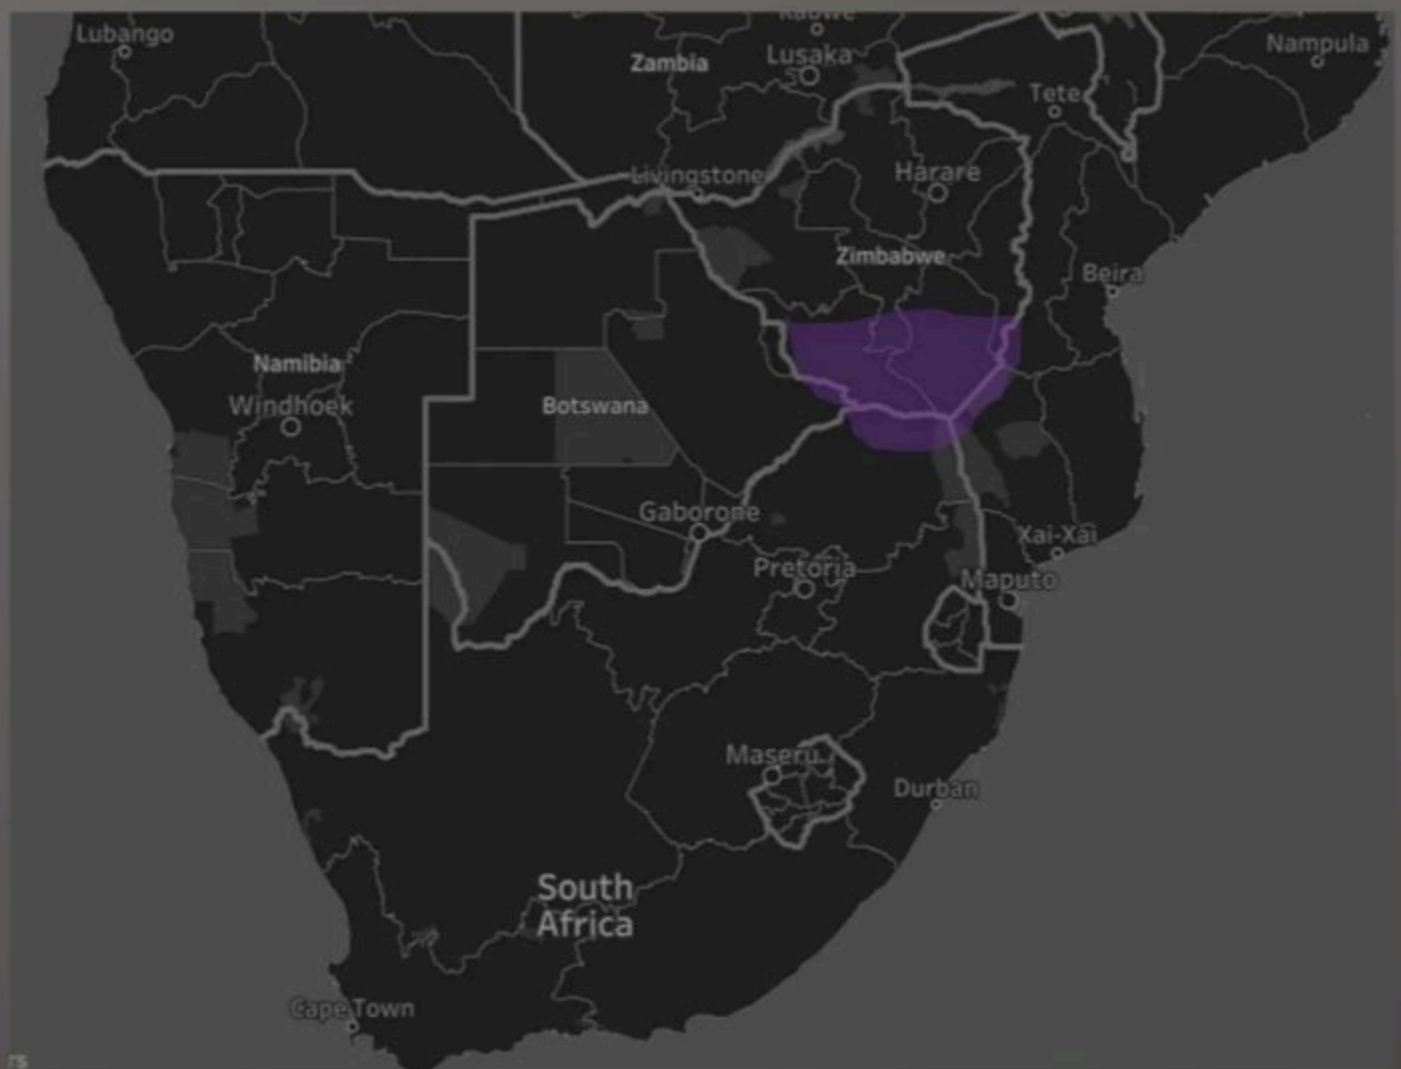

*Afroisometrus
minshullae*

Not Medically important .

- A very rare scorpion with a small distribution and only females has been collected.
- Small scorpion around 25 mm.
- Yellow scorpion, previously in the Lychas genus but lacks the subaculear tubercle.
- This species has only six eyes, two median and two pairs of lateral eyes.
- Can found under debris and granite koppies.
- Best to UV light for it due to its size.
- Due to its small size, it is not a medically important species.

