

THE PROCESS OF PHOTOSYNTHESIS

Plants use sunlight to turn carbon dioxide and water into glucose (sugar) and oxygen through photosynthesis. This process is vital for their survival and provides oxygen and food for other living things in the ecosystem.

INPUTS

SUNLIGHT

CARBON DIOXIDE

WATER

OUTPUTS

GLUCOSE

OXYGEN

